

NBS Visiting Researcher Programme.

The Research Department of NBS is looking for experienced, policy-oriented academics, who can complement and enhance the research conducted at the NBS.

Our current research priorities are:

- Monetary policy transmission and inflation pass-through.
- Macroprudential policy and real estate.
- Structural developments with a (non-inclusive) focus on micro-data.
- Economic and financial effects of climate change and policy changes to mitigate it.

Visiting Researchers are expected to conduct a project in collaboration with NBS researchers and to submit a paper to the NBS Working Paper series.

Programme participants are remunerated commensurate with their background and experience and are expected to stay in total at least two weeks in Bratislava.

The schedule is, however, highly flexible.

We offer the opportunity to work with an experienced and motivated team of researchers and access to interesting, detailed and well-structured data useful for monetary policy as well as macroprudential analysis.

The deadline for this round of the NBS Visiting Researchers Program is the end of January 2024.
